01 / PROJECT DIRECTION

Personal expertise. Distinctive presence.

A personal consulting website for Brad Fabian: an experienced partner connecting commerce strategy, technology, customer experience, and execution.

The objective

Help retail and e-commerce decision-makers understand what Brad does, trust his experience, and book an introductory conversation. The brand should feel senior, approachable, and unmistakably personal.

Who it is for

Retail founders, business owners, e-commerce leaders, and technology stakeholders facing a platform decision, operational complexity, growth challenge, or leadership gap.

What the experience should communicate

You work directly with Brad. His judgment and involvement are central to the offer.

Strategy connects to delivery. Business context and technical detail belong together.

Miami adds character. Original Wynwood-inspired artwork gives the site an expressive visual signature.

Scope: A responsive, single-page consulting site. Main action: book a 30-minute introductory call. Secondary action: send a project inquiry.

02 / ART DIRECTION

The visual identity

Direction
A calm editorial layout with a bold creative signature: deep teal, warm ivory, a coral sun, and painted texture. Keep artwork concentrated so the consulting message remains clear.

Logo
Use the transparent BF + Brad Fabian lockup. Preserve the serif monogram, coral sun, turquoise stroke, proportions, and texture. Keep clear space around it; do not stretch.

Mural
Use as the main hero artwork, cropped within an arch. The monogram and sun must remain visible. Treat it as original brand artwork inspired by Miami street art, without implying affiliation with Wynwood Walls.

Portrait
Use the supplied square headshot beside the About copy. A thin, slightly rotated coral frame adds continuity with the artwork.

Coral is a decorative accent. Use deep teal for readable text and controls on light surfaces. Turquoise, cobalt, and gold live mainly within the mural.

03 / IMPLEMENTATION SPECS

Typography & layout system

These values describe the latest mockup. The logo is raster artwork; its lettering is not an identified, editable font.

Role	Font / treatment	Size
Hero headline	Arial / Helvetica, weight 500	65-104 px desktop
Hero emphasis	Georgia Italic, weight 400	Matches headline
Section headings	Georgia, weight 400	38-64 px base
Service headings	Arial / Helvetica, weight 500	25 px
Body / intro	Arial / Helvetica	14-17 px / 16 px
Navigation / buttons	Arial / Helvetica	13 px
Eyebrow labels	Bold uppercase; tracking 2 px	10 px

Spacing & grid

Maximum page width: 1,480 px. Header and hero side padding: 5%; content sections: 7%. Main section padding: 100 px vertically. Body line height: 1.7.

Responsive behavior

At 760 px and below, stack hero, About, approach, booking, and contact content. Use 6% side padding and 65 px section spacing. Services move from two columns to one.

Component details

Hero art: 620 px high on desktop, 510 px on mobile; arch radius 48% at the top with a subtle 2-degree rotation. Portrait: up to 390 px wide. Scheduler: 10 px corners; buttons: 2 px corners.

Typography exceptions

About heading: 38-57 px. Booking heading: 58 px desktop / 43 px mobile. Approach: 47 / 43 px. Contact: 55 / 48 px. Hero on mobile: clamp(56px, 12vw, 80px).

04 / CONTENT & HIERARCHY

The homepage sequence

01

Header + hero

Logo, Expertise, About, and Book a call. Lead with “Big picture. Real progress. Personally.” Pair concise positioning with the arched mural. Primary action: Book an introductory call.

02

Expertise

“Clarity at the top. Momentum on the ground.” Four services: Commerce strategy; Platforms & technology; Experience & growth; Leadership & delivery. Two-column layout on desktop.

03

Your partner

Square portrait on the left, personal story on the right. “Strategy is personal. So is the work.” Explain the developer-to-e-commerce leadership perspective and direct involvement.

04

The approach

A sage section with three steps: Start with the business; Connect the moving parts; Stay close to the work. Keep explanations concise and practical.

05

Book a conversation

“A little time. A clearer next step.” Include a 30-minute call summary, portrait avatar, date selection, time selection, and clear timezone information.

06

Written inquiry + footer

Offer an alternative for visitors who prefer to write. Fields: name, email, and project details. Footer: name, copyright, and location. Keep internal asset-download links out of the public launch.

05 / PROTOTYPE TO PRODUCTION

Booking & interaction requirements

The booking module is currently an interactive design preview, not a live Calendly embed. It supports month navigation, sample date selection, and sample time selection. It does not reserve a slot, create a meeting, or send an invitation.

The live booking experience

- Choose Calendly, Cal.com, or an equivalent scheduling service and supply the public event URL.

- Configure a 30-minute introductory call, real availability, buffers, notice period, video location, and confirmation/reminder settings in the chosen service.

- Replace the mock calendar with the provider’s supported embed; retain a direct booking link as a fallback if the embed does not load.

- Show the visitor’s selected timezone accurately. The current preview labels sample times as Eastern Time; live availability must come from the scheduling provider.

- Check the full flow on mobile and desktop: select a slot, provide details, confirm, receive an invitation, and reschedule or cancel.

Other interactions

Navigation: Hero and header booking actions should lead to #book. About links lead to the same section. Maintain visible keyboard focus and honor reduced-motion preferences.

Written inquiry: The current form only copies a brief to the clipboard. Choose a form destination and delivery method before launch. Add clear validation, success/error states, spam protection, and an appropriate privacy notice.

Images: Use the transparent logo on ivory; provide descriptive portrait alt text. If the mural is purely decorative and repeats the visible identity, use empty alt text in the final implementation.

Launch gate: Remove all “booking preview” labels and sample slots only after real scheduling works. Never show a successful booking state without a confirmed appointment.

06 / ELEVENTY HANDOFF

Build plan & launch checklist

Recreate the approved design with semantic HTML, CSS, and a small amount of JavaScript. Eleventy can organize layouts, reusable partials, page data, and assets while preserving a lightweight front end.

Suggested build order

1. Create the base layout and header/footer partials. Move brand colors, typography, spacing, and breakpoints into shared CSS tokens.

2. Build the hero, services, About portrait, approach, booking, and inquiry sections. Populate services from a data file if useful.

3. Add the supplied assets through the project's configured passthrough or image pipeline. Create responsive image sizes and reserve dimensions to reduce layout shifts.

4. Connect real scheduling and inquiry delivery. Test navigation, forms, keyboard operation, and narrow-screen layouts.

Asset handoff

Current source assets:
brad-fabian-logo-transparent.png - transparent full logo
wynwood-bf.png - original mural
brad-fabian-portrait.webp - web-sized portrait

The earlier web-assets ZIP contains the mural and an ivory-background logo. Replace that logo with the newer transparent PNG. Optimize web copies; retain originals. These logos are raster files, not editable SVG artwork.

Before public launch

- Confirm service positioning, biography, business contact details, and any proof points. Do not add client logos, metrics, or testimonials without approval.

- Check contrast, form labels, heading order, focus states, tap targets, and overflow at 375, 768, 1,024, and 1,440 px.

- Add page metadata, social sharing image, favicon, canonical domain, and contact/privacy details. Decide whether analytics are needed and configure consent where applicable.

- Connect BradFabian.com to the production host only after review. The existing mockup remains a private reference, not the live domain.
